HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1914.

No. 106

Editorial Comments.

September Morn is here again.

Emperor Fances Joseph is not critically ill, as reported, but is as well as usual.

Only three German cruisers are at large, three in the Atlantic and two in the Pacific.

The Democratic State Committee will meet Thursday to elect a campaign chairman.

Fleets of Great Britain and Germany had their first encounter in the North Sea Friday.

There will be 66 cardinals in the conclave soon to assemble to elect the 238th pope.

There are 790 teachers in the public schools of Louisville and the minimum salary is $500.

Canadian troops are now ready for service and 25,000 will sail this week and next week.

Admiral Dewa is in charge of the Japanese fleet. His name at least has the right sound.

Refugees from Belgium are taking the places of soldiers in working in the French harvest fields.

Late reports say the English sunk 11 German ships instead of 4 in the naval battle of Heligoland.

Frederick Palmer has been designated to represent the Associated Press with the British army.

Russia has mobilized 8,000,000 men, divided into four grand armies, the first of which is now headed for Berlin.

Mrs. Helen B. Walcott, state agent of the Girls' Canning Club, will address the Institute. Who or what is to be canned?

Prince Albert, second son of King George, has been landed from his ship at Aberdeen, Scotland, suffering with appendicitis.

A train at Hemstead, N. Y., killed four people in an automobile and carried three of the bodies on the "cowcatcher" for half a mile.

Jailer Joe Faris, of Paris, Ky., shot and killed Eugene Huston, the leader of a mob that was trying to take a negro prisoner out of the jail.

If sugar keeps on rising many a girl's five-pound box of candy will shrink into a nice little one-pound box with a pretty picture on the outside.

Switzerland is maintaining a standing army of 300,000 and the cost is enormous for the little republic, and many families are deprived of the only bread-winner.

More than 1,000,000 men are battling on the Austrian frontier a distance of 100 miles. The German army is putting up stubborn resistance to the Russian advance at Alenstein.

France has some Senegalese riflemen in the frontier army who take off their shoes when they go into battle, because they can run faster in making charges to capture guns. They are unused to wearing shoes.

Gov. McCreary has returned to Frankfort and has let it be known that the prison commissioners have already been promised. Opinions differ as to whether Henry Lawrence or Francis Douglas will get it.

Turkey is about to become an ally of Germany and Austria, hoping to recover the Aegean Islands and Macedonia. Greece will line up with the allies. England has warned Turkey that a declaration of war will be her death warrant.

Willie Wied, the kinglet who mounted the throne of the newly created kingdom of Albania, has jumped the game. Both Italy and Austria withdrew financial support and the job didn't pay and besides a considerable number of the subjects were gunning for Willie.

BIGGER THAN EVER

Pennyroyal Fair Draws Near With Glowing Prospects of Success.

HOME COMING DAY SEPT. 29.

More Stalls Will Have To Be Built For Horses Engaged.

As the date for the Pennyroyal Fair draws near, plans are already under way to make it one of the biggest occasions in the state. The committee in charge have ordered banners and other advertising equipment and will start to work right away on the advertising part of the preparations.

As has already been announced, one of the big features of the Fair this year will be Home Coming Day on the opening day of the Fair, September 29. Invitations have been sent to the Governors of this and adjoining states and also to some of the leading speakers and statesmen of the nation to be present and address the enormous crowd that is expected to be present on that day.

Communications have been received from the owners of some of the best horses in the state, engaging stalls and stating that their horses will surely be here when the Fair begins. Owing to the large number of stock that is expected to be entered a good many additional stalls will have to be built and this work will be started as soon as possible. There are now a hundred or more stalls but these are all filled and the demand will be large when the Fair commences.

The prizes this year are to be the largest ever offered here. Already race stakes aggregating in the neighborhood of $4,000 have been offered as premiums. This does not include the prizes offered for other entries besides those in the races. The additional stakes are also exceptionally large.

Champion Home-Stayer.

Mrs. Nancy Edrington, aged 72, born and reared within 15 miles of Bowling Green, never visited the town until one day last week.

MR. HARRIS SUCCUMBS.

Death Results After Illness of Several Months.

Taylor Harris, aged 44 years, died Saturday morning at the home of his brother, Owen Harris, East Nineteenth street. He had been in declining health for several months. Peritonitis and dropsy caused his death. Mr. Harris was reared in Todd county but had been a resident of this city for about two years. The deceased is survived by his mother, two brothers and four sisters. He was a member of the Methodist Church. The interment took place near Elmo, Sunday.

Weather For the Week.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—Thunder showers during much of the week in South Atlantic and Gulf States and the extreme southwest is the forecast by the weather bureau for the coming week. Temperatures will be somewhat higher early in the week over the central portions of the country and during the latter half of the week will increase over the west generally. No tropical disturbance is indicated.

Died Last Week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shoulders, of Cerulean, died very suddenly, although she had been in ill health for quite a while. She is survived by four sons and two daughters. Two of her sons live in this city.

The city of Louvain, destroyed by the Germans, was chartered in 1285 and contained many priceless works of art and architecture. It contained nearly 50,000 people.

GERMANS RESUME FIGHT AFTER REST

Sir John French Reports British Re-enforced In New Line of Defense, Ready To Repel Another Attack By Germans.

GREAT BOMBS ARE DROPPED IN PARIS.

German Aeroplane Flies Over French Capital and Throws Deadly Missiles—Two Women Wounded—Though Startled by Threatening Occurrence, People Remain Tranquil.

Paris, Aug. 31.—A German aeroplane flying at the height of 6,000 feet over Paris, dropped five bombs into the city at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, only two of which exploded. Two women were wounded.

The aviator, who signed himself Lieutenant von Heissen, dropped manifestos on which was written: "The Germany army is at the gates of Paris; you can do nothing but surrender."

Though startled by this threatening occurrence Parisians remained tranquil.

An official statement issued in Paris says:

"The situation in the main remains the same. After a period of calm the battle has been resumed. A regiment of the enemy's infantry, essaying to cross the Meuse, was almost annihilated."

Paris, Aug. 31.—It is officially announced that the Military Governor has ordered all residents of the zone within action of the city's defending forts to evacuate and destroy their houses by Sept. 3.

Washington, Aug. 31.—A circle of country for thirty-four miles will be swept of buildings if the order of the military Governor of Paris that residents of the "zone of action" of the French capital's defending forts burn their homes in anticipation of a siege, is correctly interpreted here. It is supposed the order refers to the suburban territory just beyond the city's second line of defenses, composed of seventeen connecting forts.

These are located in a wide circle about two miles outside of the inner wall, which surrounds Paris. They lie for the most part among famous suburban towns, such as Neuilly, Versailles, Vincennes and sweep every approach to the city. It is assumed that the Governor's orders is intended to clear the way in front of these defenses, that no protection will be afforded an advancing enemy.

The order probably applies also to the outer circle of the city's triple line of defenses. These are the most modern of the forts. They are built of steel and masonry and known to be equipped with the heaviest guns of the famous French artillery, although details as to their armament have been closely guarded. They are located among the hills, however, and while it may be necessary to destroy numerous buildings in order to open the country to the fire of their guns, it is thought the destruction will not be of such wholesale proportions as in the case of the second line forts which are embedded among costly dwellings and thriving towns.

Something of the magnitude of the defenses of Paris is shown by estimates that only an army of half a million men could hope to invest them and cut them off from the outside world. Some of the forts still bear the names under which they resisted the German assaults in 1870, but they have been remodeled and newly equipped many times, as the science of gunnery progressed, and today are considered by military experts among the strongest defense works in the world. The two outer lines are so placed that each fort has a cross-fire over the territory swept directly by the guns of adjoining forts. The result is to make attackers face fire from both flanks as well as the front in advancing on any position.

SUNDAY'S WAR NEWS.

The French and British are gathering every man and gun available in Northwestern France in an attempt to stop the German advance on the road to Paris. It is also said that Gen. Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French army, will endeavor to strike at the German right and bring relief to the British and French forces which have been placed in such a critical situation by the German outflanking movement. How far the Allies have succeeded in getting across the German path is not disclosed.

A report comes both from Antwerp and Copenhagen that the Germans have commenced a movement back from the west to meet the Russians who have been advancing so quickly through East Prussia.

Uneasiness is felt over the attitude of Turkey, and Athen reports German naval officers on their way to Constantinople.

Eleven German vessels, at least, were sunk and many of their crews killed and wounded in the naval battle off Heligoland with the English, according to the reports brought to England by men who took part in the engagement. A great many German prisoners were taken, many of them wounded. The British losses are said to have been one killed and twenty wounded. One of the British cruisers was severely damaged. On a hospital ship which returned to England yesterday was Prince Albert, second son of King George, who is suffering from appendicitis.

China has refused the aid of Japan in settling any internal uprisings that may occur during the European war, considering herself able to handle the situation. The German Far Eastern fleet is said to be bottled up at Tsing Tau.

A Zeppelin airship which made several flights over Poland was brought down by the fire of the Russians. It contained eight men with rapid fire guns and explosives. Emperor Francis Joseph and Emperor Wilhelm have bestowed medals of honor and bravery upon each other.

English Lost 6,000.

London, Aug. 31.—After four days of desperate fighting the British army in France is rested, refitted and re-enforced for the next great battle, according to an announcement last night by Lord Kitchener. In a statement based on reports from Sir John French, commander of the British expeditionary forces, the secretary says that the British, after struggling against tremendous odds, retired to a new line of defense where they have not been molested since Thursday. Their casualties are between 5,000 and 6,000. Since the fighting ceased the French on the right and left have brought the German attack to a standstill, it is declared.

Fortifications of Paris.

"Paris by its situation is the stronghold of the national defense. This city is an entrenched camp protected by three series of works. First, there is an inner girdle of defenses, then a circle of forts and beyond these a second ring of powerful forts destined to prevent the enemy's shells reaching the city. Some of the latter forts are twelve miles from the city."

Germany has called out the last reserves, those over 50 and under 20 years of age, to occupy Belgium. This practically exhausts her mili-

BUSINESS WAS BRISK

At the H. B. M. A. Meeting Held Friday Night, Aug. 28.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED.

To Take Up Several Important Branches of New Work.

Friday night at the regular meeting of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association, a protest was made against the change, recently announced, made by the L. & N. Railroad increasing the freight rate on cabbage, potatoes and other vegetables and green groceries. This change will take effect Sept. 1. The increase will raise the rate from Nashville to Hopkinsville from 26 cents to 32 cents and from Evansville to Hopkinsville from 27 cents to 33 cents.

President R. E. Cooper appointed as a committee to take the matter up: Messrs. T. E. Wyatt, W. R. Wheeler and Sec. Bleich. The committee will first protest to the L. & N. officials and then if necessary take the matter to the Railroad Commission.

President Cooper, who had been in Washington conferring with Government officials there, explained the manner in which the government will make loans on tobacco.

The Fox Bros. Company was asked by the H. B. M. A. to rebuild their plant and again open their creamery. The Company was doing a big business and the influence of its business was largely felt in the town and in the county.

A. H. Eckles was appointed as Chairman of a committee to confer with the city council in reference to having the L. & N. Railroad place gates at certain dangerous crossings.

It was also announced at the meeting that a large Iron Foundry, from Indiana, is contemplating opening up here and is investigating the suitability of this locality for such an enterprise. Secretary Bleich is making every effort to secure this enterprise for Hopkinsville. Such a concern would help materially in the progress of the city.

DUE TO PELLAGRA.

State Hospital Patient Dies of the Disease.

Y. E. Barnham, a patient at the Western State Hospital from Trigg county, died yesterday morning of pellagra. He had been ill about two years with the disease, but had been here only two months. He was a farmer, aged 50 years. The remains were shipped to Cadiz for interment.

Mr. Bleich's Father.

The Paducah Sun has this reference to the father of C. H. Bleich, secretary of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association:

Former Magistrate John J. Bleich and Mrs. Bleich left this morning for Atlanta, Ga., where they will make their future home. Mr. Bleich has been busy for several weeks closing his business affairs and preparing to leave the city for the south. He is well known not only in Paducah, but in western Kentucky as for 35 years he was in the jewelry business in the city.

For the last eight years Mr. Bleich has also served as magistrate. For several years he served as chairman of the finance committee of the county. He has many friends who regret his departure from the city, but wish him success in Atlanta.

Negro Man Killed.

Herbert Ford, colored, about twenty-two years old, while driving in a buggy down hill near Cadiz was killed almost instantly. Some of the harness broke and let the buggy run down against the horse, causing it to begin kicking, and the driver

PETITION IS READY

To be Filed Calling Elections For Commission Government.

DOUBLE NAMES NEEDED.

Frankfort and Owensboro Will Also Vote on Same Question.

The petitions for a commission form of government to which 550 names had already been signed, were again circulated Saturday and when they are filed to-day they will probably have a majority of all the voters in the city. Sentiment seems to be overwhelming for the proposition. If carried this fall, the commissioners will be elected next year, in lieu of the council. No steps to fill the five existing vacancies in the council have been taken. If no election is called the present council will probably elect five new councilmen later.

Other third class cities are also moving in the matter of commission government.

In Frankfort the petition has already been filed with 484 names.

In Owensboro petitions were in circulation last week, under direction of the Chamber of Commerce and nearly everybody signed to whom they were presented.

MRS. LOUISE BROWN

Passes Away After Illness of Long Duration.

Mrs. Louise Brown, wife of Mr. James G. Brown, died about noon Sunday at her home, 407 West 17th street. She had been ill for several months, suffering from a complication of diseases. Mrs. Brown was 33 years old and a member of the Christian church. She was a lady held in the highest esteem by everyone who knew her. Her husband and one child survive. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. J. Mack Hall and was a native of Jackson county, Tennessee.

Rev. H. D. Smith held funeral services at her late residence yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the interment took place in Riverside Cemetery.

The pall bearers were: John Hines, Allen Brame, D. C. Cary, Bob Morris, James Fears, Herman Johnson, A. M. Coleman and Tom Johnson.

COW SOLD FOR $5,010

May Rilma, Champion Butter Fat Producer, Is A Guernsey.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28.—May Rilma, alleged the champion butter fat producer of the world by the tests of the American Guernsey club last April, was sold for $5,010 today at the sale of Edward B. Cassatt's herd of blooded Guernsey cattle at Devon. The entire herd, which has been estimated to be worth $20,000, was sold for less than $21,000.

May Rilma last year produced 19,639.5 pounds of milk, which showed 1059.55 pounds of butter fat. She was bought by John P. Crozer of Upland, the only butter. Many Guernsey fanciers from different sections of the country attended the sale.

Leg Is Broken.

Robt. A. Smithson, of Howell, Ind., son of Jas. A. Smithson, of this city, had his leg broken on the L. & N. Railroad Saturday. He is an engineer on the road. No details of the accident were given in a letter received by Mr. Smithson.

FOUND WAY TO SEE PARIS

Englishman Quickly Got on to Scheme Which Enabled Him to "Do" the City Thoroughly.

There is a very good friend of mine, whom I now call the New Innocent Abroad, says a writer in the London Times. Though he has lived the greater portion of his life in the West end of London, circumstances have always conspired to prevent him crossing the channel.

He cannot speak a word of French, and last week he spent three days in Paris.

When he came back I went to see him.

"I think I have seen everything there is to be seen in the streets of Paris," he said when I met him, "because I discovered the ideal way of seeing a strange city."

"Whenever I wanted to go anywhere I signaled a taxicab and showed the driver the address I wanted. Now, all these French cab drivers are men with wonderful intuitions. They know at once that I really wanted to see Paris in all its beauty. So they took charge of me, and whenever I wanted to go from one office to another they drove me all round the city."

"Often after the first day I knew that the place I wanted to call at was not more than a few hundred yards away from the hotel. Still the cab drivers determined that I should improve my knowledge of Paris."

"The proper way to pursue this method of sightseeing is to drive for half an hour in silence. Then you stop the cab with violent signals, produce your written address again and flourish it in the driver's face."

"He smiles politely and generally treats you as though you are a naughty child. Meanwhile, a small crowd collects composed of polite individuals all anxious to proffer you their services."

"They direct you to different places of public interest, and after an exchange of courtesies you start on another joy ride for half an hour or so."

REAL CAUSE FOR ANXIETY

Old Gentleman's Exceedingly Neat Rejoinder to Tactless Remark Made by Nephew.

There is an old gentleman in Philadelphia approaching the ninety mark who still finds much zest in life, and, having retained all his faculties, he feels that a few of the physical disabilities of age are of small account.

His nephew is a man of small talk, a fact which has always aroused the ire of the old man.

A few weeks before the old gentleman's eighty-ninth birthday this nephew, who had been overweighted with business cares for years, started on a trip to Europe that was to consume a year.

"I have come to say good-by," announced the nephew to the old man. "I am starting abroad to be gone a year—perhaps longer. I thought I might never—well, you understand—I wanted to be sure to see you once more."

Whereupon the old man leaned forward, fixing his nephew with his beady-like eyes.

"Well," he said impressively, "do you mean to tell me the doctor doesn't think you'll live to get back?"

How the Rain Bore Holes.

When rain falls it does not actually soak into the earth, but bores its way in, forming tiny tubes, says the Rehabilitation Herald. These tubes are so small that it would be impossible to insert a hair in one of them without bursting its walls. Sometimes the tubes are bored down to a depth of four or five feet. When the surface dries the water evaporates from the tubes, just as it would from a pipe. If the tube is twisted it takes longer for the water to evaporate.

If one takes a rake and stirs the ground after each rain he breaks the tops of the tubes and the water will stand in them for months. In this way the farmers of the West, on semi-arid lands, store the rainfall one year and raise a crop of wheat every other year, there being sufficient water in two years, but not enough in one, to raise a crop.

How to Win an Author.

"There's no greater fallacy," said an author at the New York Authors' club, "than the popular one to the effect that writers don't like you to talk to them about their work."

"Mark Twain exploded this fallacy well when he said that there were three ways of pleasing an author: First, to tell him that you have read one of his books; second, to tell him you have read all his books; and, third, to ask him to let you read the manuscript of his forthcoming book. The first way wins his respect, the second wins his friendship, and the third wins his love."

Gets Tardy Recognition.

Anne Hutchinson, whom a Boston writer designates as the "Puritan protagonist of feminism," is to have a statue among the other Boston worthies. She is also described by another writer as the "spiritual ancestor of every woman's alliance; indeed of every organization in the land for patriotic or social or intellectual or religious conference and improvement." She organized the Woman's club, the first one being held in her house, and she talked so plainly that she was banished by Winthrop, and in March 1638, went forth into the woods where she was finally killed by the Indians.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's For One Thing Only, and Hopkinsville People Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything.

Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only.

For weak or disordered kidneys.

Here is Hopkinsville evidence to prove their worth.

Miss L. A. Hester, Fifteenth & Clay Sts., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "The pain in my back, caused by disordered kidneys, was so severe some days that I often felt like lying down. If I walked any distance or exerted myself in any way, I was troubled most and if I caught cold, it made me miserable. In the morning, I felt stiff and sore and often found it hard to dress. Kidney weakness bothered me. I doctored but found little relief. Finally, Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I got a box. They removed the pains in my back and the other kidney ailments left."

Food for Thought

A singularly sad and regrettable feature of every wet and dry campaign is the spectacle of men telling other men they shall not drink something when they themselves are doing things a thousand times worse than the thing they seek to prohibit.

Speaking of "natural appetite," it would seem than an appetite for "mother's milk" is about the only one that is perfectly natural. Even an appetite for ice cream and lady fingers is an acquired one.

A question as to what effect prohibition has upon a community may be answered in a single sentence. It lowers the standard of morals and injures business.

Maine has had prohibition for over sixty years, but nothing is being said about the ideal conditions in that State. The truth about the matter is that prohibition has made Maine the laughing stock of the world.

Kansas City, Kansas, the largest city in that State, is separated from Kansas City, Missouri, by an imaginary line in the middle of a street. Kansas City, Missouri, is a wet city. All that some of the dry citizens of dry Kansas City, Kansas, have to do to get their wet goods is to walk across the street, and none of them have to travel any great distance. The suggestion that prohibition prohibits in Kansas City, Kansas is utterly ridiculous.

No one denies that there are drinking places in this city that are conducted properly. All drinking places can be and should be conducted in that way. Abolish the revenue paying saloons and there will be substituted five times as many places where worse drink will be sold at a higher price and where boys in knee trousers can buy as readily as a man with whiskers.

Some people in Hopkinsville seem to think that the fathers and mothers in this city and county cannot bring up their sons and daughters as well as their fathers and mothers brought them up. Such an intimation is a gratuitous insult to every father and mother in Christian county.

What temptation will prohibition remove? Cannot the blind pig, the bootlegger, the speak-easy, the kitchen bar, and the mail order house tempt? These are things that never fail to follow the wake of prohibition.

It is no great compliment to a real man to have somebody inform him that he needs a legal muzzle to prevent him from making a hog of himself. Prohibition is an insult to manhood.

If there is a drinking place in this city that is not being conducted properly, regulate it, or eliminate it. It is unfair to vote men who are conducting their business according to law, and their lives according to the rules of business, because other men are not doing that. There is not a law-breaking liquor man anywhere that cannot be regulated or put out of business in seven days. Place a uniform police in front of the law-breaking saloon keeper's place of business, and in one week's time he will be begging for permission to give a bond that he will conduct his place properly.—Advertisement.

CLEAR WINDSHIELD.

A doctor living in a rainy climate, whose calls took him out often in wet weather, undertook the problem of maintaining clear vision through the windshield of his automobile regardless of rain; and he succeeded in making a prescription that would do the work.

The prescription calls for one ounce of water, two ounces of glycerine and a dram of salt. This is poured on a piece of gauze and then wiped over the glass, care being taken to have all the streaks downward. The effect of the treatment is to prevent raindrops from clinging to the glass.—Saturday Evening Post.

WHY THEY FOUGHT.

The man from the bituminous coal region had just walloped the ground with the man who had attempted to take liberties with him. Then, standing over the fallen and vanquished assailant, he said:

"It is well for you to understand the phrasing of things. For instance, you you mustn't ever confuse a soft-coal miner with a soft coal-miner."

THE TRANSFORMING SYMBOL.

"I never had much taste for mathematics when I was a boy," said Mr. Dusty Stax.

"But you managed to do some great calculating in a business way." "That's different. It's wonderful what an interest you can give to a row of figures by putting a dollar mark in front of them."

THEIR USE.

"Why are eyes and noses considered features of corrupt legislation?" "Because the latter scent jobs and the former wink at them."

PLENTY OF THEM.

"Can you apply a check to your wife's extravagance?" "Can I? She just keeps me and my account busy applying them."

Fortunate Indiana.

In a composition dealing with the habits and customs of American Indians, a boy deeply impressed with their free-and-easy life wrote the following: "The Indians had few laws, but they were well violated."

Tobin-Cayce.

Mr. T. L. Tobin and Miss Willie Cayce were married Sunday night by Rev. Father J. P. Welsh, of the Catholic church. They had expected to be married Wednesday, but as Father Welsh was leaving the city, the wedding was hurried up. The popular young people will move into their residence on East Main street in a few days.

CAPITAL WITH NO INK.

A local journalist writing a piece on the Delano case: "Everybody knows how primitive, except the press. There's not a bottle of ink in the place. I don't know how the printer of the Herald manages to run his press, unless he brought a fountain pen with him. I am assured that there are seven maps in the palace, but no ink."

DIFFICULT DISCIPLINE.

"I'm afraid that my discipline is not what it should be," said the conscientious man. "I reprimanded my son severely and at length for neglecting his duties to go fishing."

"Wasn't he duly impressed?" "No. He looked me in the eye and exclaimed, 'Jealous.'"

NATURALLY.

"These marriages with the aristocracy very seldom turn out well." "I agree with you that they are generally rank failures."

WISE PRECAUTION.

"Is this house insulated?" "No, sir. It belongs to a political candidate, and he is afraid now the lightning won't strike."

Sir A. Conan Doyle.

Sir A. Conan Doyle, who is in this country for a visit, is a giant in stature but a most delightful man to meet. He is an enthusiastic fisherman. When he was last in this country in 1894 he stopped for a time at Saranac lake in the Adirondacks. A guest at the same hotel at that time describes him as attired in steel blue Scotch tweed, knee breeches and a Lochinvar cap. The coat was made as a Norfolk jacket and between the belt and his ponderous bulk was a pair of gloves which he declined to wear because the weather was not cold enough, although it was late fall.

REVOLUTION IN ART IDEAS

Masters of the Brush No Longer Select Religious Subjects for Their Best Efforts.

An inquirer asks of an exchange, where it is that Ruskin says: "I have never known a man who seemed altogether right and calm in faith, who seriously cared about art." Our exchange does not say where, but simply refers the inquiry to its readers. Ruskin was possibly the greatest art critic that ever lived, and for him to say that is quite enough to awaken some concern in the world of art. Does art weaken faith? It was once thought that science did this, but that impression is passing by. Science is discovering worlds of mystery every day, and mystery is the condition of faith. There is something deeper and beyond every fact that science discovers; and beyond the crucible and the microscope is where faith does its real work.

But how about art? The church was the influence that encouraged art. We would not have had any "old masters" if it had not been for the church. Religious themes constituted the inspiration of art in its most glorious days. But these historic fields have been quite abandoned, and now art deals mostly with charm, grace, beauty, love; and in doing so, it seems to have cut away from the saints, the martyrs and the miracles of the golden age of art.

PROVE EXCEPTION TO RULE

Indian Tribes That Have Benefited by Contact With People of Civilized Race.

Among the Buriats and Yakuts of eastern Siberia the almost general rule of decline and decay has failed to make good. While practically all other far northern tribes are dying out, here are two which, since 1857, have increased steadily. The coming of white men has been a benefit to them, and in numerous cases they have abandoned their nomadic mode of existence and have taken kindly to agriculture, while at the same time they have begun to adopt many Russian customs as regards food, furniture, and dress. Similarly the Yakuts, under Russian influence, have developed very considerable agricultural interests; they are the owners of big herds of cattle and engage in hay-making. They favor Russian dress and frequently construct their dwellings in the Russian style. Both the Yakuts and the Buriats are quick to learn, and in the Yakutsk province Yakut scholars often constitute quite half of the total in the schools, while some of them qualify for higher education.

JUST AS HAPPY.

"What has become of your cousin?" "She went crazy over the tango and we had to send her to a sanatorium."

"Here is a sad lot."

"Oh, no; she's perfectly happy. They tango at the sanatorium and she has learned four new steps."

WOKE TOO LATE.

Slowboy—Then my dream of happiness is over.

Miss Smart—That's about it. You dreamt so long that I accepted another while you were asleep.—Boston Evening Transcript.

ENLIGHTENED.

Silas—I've been told that Napoleon said an army travels on its stomach.

Jonas—That explains it; I often wondered what a casus belli meant.

AVERAGE WAS LOW.

"Has she been married long?" "Well, one of them lasted nearly two years, but the average, I think, has been six months."

NOT SCARED BY BILLS.

"It is said that women are braver than men. Do you believe it?" "Well, I think more of them would take a chance at marriage."

THE USUAL WAY.

"When the will contest was decided, what division of the money was made among the heirs?" "What the lawyers left."

COMPARISONS.

"My favorite heroine has a flower face." "That's nothing. My favorite hero has a chrysanthemum head."

SEEK TO SAVE ARAB BREED

Cairo Has Society Whose Object It is to Preserve Famous Race of Horses.

The Arab horse, a race which has been all-important in the development of the most valuable equine breeds of the present day, is said to be deteriorating in quality and diminishing in numbers in its original home, owing to changing habits of the Bedonins and increasing exportation.

The Philippine Agricultural Review states that as a step toward preserving this famous breed there is being formed in Cairo an International Horse society.

The first work of this society will be to start a stud book, one part of which will include only pure-bred horses of desert origin, while the other will be open to all so-called "eastern" horses, i. e., horses bred in the near East, but having an infusion of alien blood.

Pure-bred Arabians are now found only among the different Bedouin tribes of the Arabian and Syrian deserts (in Mesopotamia and the Nejd); in a few private studs in Egypt, and in a very few European and American studs.

The society will hold annual shows and auction sales, at which will be offered animals of certified purity of pedigree.

WOMEN WITH MEXICAN ARMY

Correspondent Tells of Conditions That Are of Infinite Pathos—Battles With the Armed Forces.

At Manzanillo I met General Tellez with his command, waiting to be transported by steamer to Mazatlan, writes Fritz Arno von de Ellen in Harper's Weekly, and here I saw the Mexican soldier stripped of the pretenses of a dress parade. He is often accompanied by his wife and children, or, lacking these, his mistress. Herded together in freight cars like cattle, whole families arrived at Manzanillo, and many of the women carried babies in their arms. The camp suggested a cross between a Boy Scouts' outing and a picnic ground. Imagine a commissary department that depends upon women to cook meals for husbands and lovers. Imagine disheveled females and dirty children outnumbering the men. As a human spectacle viewed in the twentieth century, right next door to the United States, it is interesting. In a military sense, it is pathetic.

GYRO GAR IN LONDON.

The first public appearance of M. Schidowsky's two-wheeled gyroscope motor car in the streets of London, April 28, caused immense excitement. The car carried the inventor, a mechanic, and Louis Brennan, the inventor of the gyroscopic monorail train. The gyro-car made several short trips, the speed never exceeding four miles an hour. No noise was audible except the running of the engine and the striking of a small bell which kept count of the revolutions of the gyroscope. When the car was at rest it rocked very slightly, so little as to be barely perceptible. The motion of the car is indistinguishable from that of an ordinary automobile. Owing to the great weight, three tons, which the car carried, it was impossible to drive the machine except on the lowest gear. The cost of constructing the car was about $12,500.

NATURAL.

Pop—Yes, all engines have cowcatchers. Sure, souny.

Sonny—That's funny. I thought they only needed 'em on milk trains.—Life.

NO CHANCE.

"It is so easy to hide yourself in this vast world," sighed the Old Fogey.

"Not if you have a few creditors," remarked the Grouch.

ONE CONSOLATION.

Madge—It's awful to suffer in silence!

Marjorie—It must be, dear. That is why I'm glad I am a woman and don't have to do it.—Judge.

"How now?"

"My girl has given me a lock of imported green hair."

All voters are cordially invited to call at the Headquarters for literature, other information and conference with the Headquarters Committee.

Telling speeches were made for prohibition Saturday at Rich by Judge Walter Knight and yesterday at Lafayette by Judge Thos. P. Cook.

Great interest is being manifested in the exhibition of a picture of "John Barleycorn," Jack London's famous book, which will occur on Thursday and Friday of this week at the Rex Theatre.

"Prohibition is a failure!" When? Where? How? "O always, everywhere and every way."

That doubtless accounts for its unpopularity. Our readers have noticed its unpopularity. It is true that practically within a single generation it has reprobated by law in three fourths of the territory of the United States a traffic having the momentum of the practice and traditions of ages. But what of that? It should have done that over night. It is very true that the rest of the territory of the Union is section by section gradually acknowledging its sway.

But then doubtless if it were really popular, it would do that all in a day by acclamation as it were. Clearly it is unpopular.

Besides those who are for it are narrow, hypocritical and even mad. They are really not entitled to be counted at all. It is the sane, honest and enlightened who should govern. Everybody knows that is right. And is it not apparent that to the most obtuse observer of this community for instance that the friends of whisky include all the sane, moral and cultured portions of our population? So it makes absolutely no difference if everybody in the United States except the dealers in liquor and those engaged in the allied traffics such as those of the gambling room and the brothels turns prohibitionist. The prohibitionist is insane or unenlightened or dishonest. He would not, indeed could not, be a prohibitionist otherwise.

It is true that half of the American people have gone mad or turned rascal already and the rest have symptoms of frenzy of rascality. But that only emphasizes the necessity of the sane, enlightened and honest liquorite bestirring himself—as the only exponent of sanity, enlightenment and honesty—as in fact the only patriot left, he must do his utmost to rule. It is his right, the right of sanity against insanity, of culture over ignorance, of honesty over dishonesty. It is a right so perfect and entire that no sane person, which of course is the same as saying that no liquorite, will dispute it.

"The means of ruling?" The friends of liquor must not be scrupulous now. The country is to be saved and they are its only saviors. And they have the example of "hold men and women" of old distillers, brewers and brothel keepers.

These hold persons gulped down no doubt with difficulty the objections of tender consciences. They purchased votes. They suppressed facts about prohibition which were apt to do the holy cause harm. In extremity they fabricated stories. While these things do not seem to the muddy dishonest enemies of drink to be correct practices—these frenzied mobs even dare to call them sins and crimes—we must consider that Providence has clearly called the saloon, the brothel and the gambling house to save a nation from mental or moral decay, and if the dishonest and mad can be cozened or coerced into honesty and sanity, shall the saloon hesitate or palter about means?

Not the Saloon! Do not think it. It is raising money from its own till and from the brewer and distiller to carry on the righteous war. How patriotic and philanthropic it is in this! It can sell more drinks and that without license in dry territory than in wet territory. It has told us so and it is about the only truth-teller left in the whole country. Even the government is lying about drink. It perpetrates the perfectly absurd falsehood that Kansas consumes less drink than New Jersey and other such falsehoods without number. Now the saloon in its wisdom understands quite easily and naturally what the insane and dishonest prohibitionist cannot. It understands that the divinely appointed number of boys to be made drunkards is that already reached, i. e., one from every fifth family in the nation. It is wrong, it is in fact an awful crime to make more drunkards than that. And prohibition would make more than that. And so the saloon spends its money to preserve this divinely appointed ratio of drunkards to our population. It does this, let it be remembered, at a threefold cost of money. It foregoes the largest profits it would have if the country were dry, and pays a larger license fee in addition to what it can raise for campaign funds.

Pembroke "Languishes."

We, the undersigned business men of Pembroke, take pleasure in saying that the business interests of the town of Pembroke have not suffered in the least on account of prohibition. The town has been without saloons for more than three years, and during that time there have been three successive poor crops. Despite this fact, however, the business men of Pembroke have prospered, and are prospering. The closing of the saloons of Christian county not only will not hinder business but will, in our opinion, be a help to business.

Other Languishing Cities.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 16, 1910.

W. R. Stubbs, Governor, Topeka, Kan.

Prohibitory law is more rigidly enforced in Leavenworth now than ever before in its history. Some bootlegging and pocket traffic is carried on, but gradually being driven out. Crime is much reduced, although drunkenness has not greatly decreased due to our proximity to Kansas City, where the soldiers go for liquor. Leavenworth's population has increased according to census reports over three thousand in the past two years. And records show that real estate values are considerably enhanced and past two years transfers have been best in the city's history. From officers of the various banks, I learn that deposits from business and individuals have increased over half million during past eighteen months. The increase is especially noted in the savings department, indicating that the laboring man is saving his money instead of spending it for drink. The merchants here, almost without exception, report the best two years of business ever experienced. The efforts of enforcement of prohibitory laws here have been very beneficial to this city and the movement is growing in favor rapidly. I will venture to say that fully 75 per cent of population favor its enforcement.

OMAR ABERNATHY, Mayor.

Pittsburg, Kan., March 16, 1910.

Governor W. R. Stubbs, Topeka, Kan.

Prohibitory law well enforced. Business good. Bank deposits higher than ever before in history of the city. Crime and drunkenness decreased. Property values and rents little lower than before the panic. Good safe majority of our population in favor of law enforcement.

HIS GROUNDS FOR SUSPICION

Rev. Mr. Lanks Might Be Pardoned for Believing Brother Meeks Was Henpecked.

"My dear, you remember I have frequently said to you that I believed Brother Meeks, who lives out beyond Elderside, came the nearest to being wholly sanctified of any of my parishioners?" remarked Reverend Mr. Lanks of the Hawbuck circuit to his wife, soon after returning from a visit to that portion of his charge. "Well, now I grieve to say that I entertain a grave suspicion of the genuineness of his sanctification."

"Why so?" questioned Mrs. Lanks. "I spent the afternoon at the home of the Meeks family yesterday," returned the good man, "and during my stay a severe thunderstorm came up and the house was struck by lightning. Sister Meeks had just directed her husband to rekindle the kitchen fire preparatory to cooking supper, and he was down on his knees before the stove, blowing the coals vigorously, when there came a terrific clap of thunder, and a bolt of lightning came down the chimney and knocked him senseless. It also tore off nearly all of his clothing, scorched his whiskers and burned a streak down his breast and one leg that looked as if done with a red hot poker. It was some time before he recovered his senses, and when he did so all he said was to reproachfully remark to his wife: 'Sarah, you oughtn't to treat me this way before the minister. I was hurrying just as fast as I could.' I may be doing Brother Meeks an injustice, but I cannot help thinking that he is more henpecked than sanctified."—New York World.

UNIFORM MEANT FOR SERVICE

Garb of the Soldiers of "Holy Russia" Is Said to Be the Simplest in European Armies.

It is said that the uniform of the Russian soldier is the simplest field uniform in Europe. In winter a sheepskin coat goes on beneath the gray one. In summer, or during campaigns in hot climates, the Russians, like the Japanese, fight in white dress.

The Russian campaigner marches somewhat heavily laden. He has his kit-bag with clothing slung over one shoulder, his haversack with two days' rations of bread and salt slung over the other, his greatcoat strapped under one arm. Including his water bottle, arms and ammunition, a section of tent and the uniform he wears, he carries something over 66 pounds. The advantage which offsets the burden is that at a pinch, the Russian soldier is practically independent of a baggage train. He can transport his modest necessities upon his own back.

The Russian cavalryman rides so laden with cornsacks and blankets and greatcoats and other things that he has been compared to the much-encumbered White Knight in "Alice in Wonderland." Altogether, it is said, his impedimenta weigh 112 pounds. Fortunately, what would oppress another soldier is no burden to the Muscovite. He is sturdiness itself. He has been known to march 30 miles without rest, and then go directly into an engagement.

Bomb Droppers.

The method used by Zeppelin airships in dropping bombs has been described as follows by an English refugee, who has just arrived here from Belgium:

The dirigible hovers over its objective at a sufficient altitude to keep it out of range of the enemy's guns. At the same time it lowers a steel cage attached to a steel wire rope 2,000 or 3,000 feet long. This cage is divided into compartments and it carries one man, whose duty it is to throw down the bombs.

The cage is sufficiently strong to make rifle fire against it ineffective and because of its small size and the fact that it is kept constantly in motion, it is very difficult for heavy guns to hit it.

SHOWS HER TRUE CHARACTER

Floorwalker Has Observed That Woman
on Shopping Expedition Reveals Herself as She Is.

Someone has said that you can always judge the caliber of a man by the manner in which he amuses himself. My experience of 15 years as floorwalker in one of the largest department stores in the country has convinced me that you can always judge a woman by the way in which she shops—which, after all, is only another way of saying the manner in which she amuses herself.

I have learned to realize that when the average woman goes on a shopping expedition—when she has taken up the trail of the bargain, determined to track it to its native counter—she brings all her cleverness into play, and in the zest of the chase she is certain to reveal her true self and unconsciously drop the mask she wears on most social occasions.

Always on the alert, always eager to bring down the game, big or little,
with a timely purchase, these shoppers
you will see browsing about the counters in and out of season. You will see them questioning the salesgirls, trying to learn in advance when reductions are to be made. You will see them pick out some article and then come in day after day and watch its price tag. Then when the price is lowered to the point where they think it is a bargain, you will see them pounce on it and carry it home.—Woman's World.

LURE OF THE BRIGHT LIGHTS

Uncle Mose Could Not Be Satisfied
While He Felt Himself Out of
"Public Life."

A negro waiter named Mose had served with a measure of distinction for several years in a downtown New York restaurant with a large patronage among business men. One day last spring a customer offered him a good position as servant at his country home. He was to have a nice uniform with brass buttons, and the pay was to be much better than he was getting. Mose accepted—envied by his white-coated associates.

One morning recently Mose turned up at the restaurant and startled the proprietor by asking for his old job.
"Why have you left Mr. Brown's service?" asked the proprietor. "Did he discharge you? Didn't he treat you well?"

"No, sir, I ain't been discharged, and they certainly did treat me all right," responded Mose promptly.

"Then why in the world come back here? The pay is less and the work is harder."

Mose paused, looked vacantly out of the window for a moment, and with a broad grin on his face, whispered: "I want mah ole job here again, 'cause
I've got to get back in public life, dat's
all!"

Found in a Glacier.

Sir Martin Conway has recently told this story of finding a lost ax in the Alps: Zurbiggen, one of the celebrated mountain climbers of the world, in scaling a peak of Les An-glaises, near Chamounix, accidentally left his ax fall near the summit of the peak. It fell some thousands of feet.
In the normal course of things it was buried in snow and swallowed up in the glacier, being covered deeper and deeper each year, and at the same time being carried slowly downward as the ice flowed on. Seven or eight years afterward Hon. C. G. Bruce and Harkbir, a Nepoy chief, in descending a peak of the Alps just as night was falling, and a great crevasse barred the way, being unable to find the bridge over it, cut a path down to bottom, where Harkbir stepped on an ax which had M. Z. Zurbiggen's initials on the handle. There could be no mistake as to the identity of the ax, as Harkbir had seen it and used it before.

Call of the City.

Life in the city is needed for a real appreciation of the country. Blake, the painter and mystic dreamer, lived in the heart of London; Millet, the painter of French rural scenes, delighted in his life in Paris; Turner commenced life in Seven Dials. It is possible for people to live in the midst of earth's glories and not appreciate them till someone from the city reveals to them the charm. Of late years we have heard much of the cry: "Back to the land." It will never be much more than a cry. Men in the mass will not go back. Man's ideal is not the Garden of Eden. He has left that far behind and will never return to it.—Rev. W. H. Armstrong in the Daily Citizen.

Futurist Window Display.

An Oxford street store has turned one of its windows into a futurist boudoir, which is a regular "Midsummer Night's Dream."
There is an oxidized bed with black sheets and pillows, black and white cushions scattered about at random on sofas or on the floor, and finally,
one of those very green china parrots, the reason of which is not apparent.—Washington Herald.

POSTMASTER WILL SWEAR OUT WARRANTS.

Postmaster Lee R. Sizemore of Cobb, Ky., who was shot from ambush several nights ago, announced before leaving Paducah that he would swear out one warrant, and maybe more. He said he knew the parties implicated in the assault, and he proposes to prosecute them. He went from here to Princeton, Ky.,
and will not return to Cobb immediately. Postmaster Sizemore was shot in the right knee, and has about recovered. Jealousy over the appointment of the postmaster is given as the cause for the attempted as-sination.

SPECIAL TO WOMEN

The most economical, cleansing and germicidal of all antiseptics is

Paxtine

A soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

As a medicinal antiseptic for douches in treating catarrh, inflammation or irritation of nose, throat, and that caused by feminine ills it has no equal.
For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham

READY WITH HIS DEFENSE

Quack's Wits Probably Had Been Sharpened by Many Encounters Similar to This.

No one ever would accuse the London Lancet of being a humorous publication, but here is a story which appeared in the Lancet and which is worthy of reprinting as a smile-getter:

A man who had been sitting on the damp grass for some hours writing with a lead pencil and frequently sucking the point thereof while waiting for inspiration, eventually felt a sharp pain in his loins. He limped to a local quack. After questioning him as to the onset of the attack, the quack simply said "plumbism." The man received some yellow pills, paid the fee and went away. He was a studious person and searched the encyclopedia for the meaning of "plumbism" and what lead pencils were made of. The next day he returned to the quack and said: "You told me I had 'plumbism,' which is lead poisoning, and I now find there is no lead in lead pencils, only graphite or plumbago." "Oh," replied the quack airily, "did I say plumbism is the cause of your lumbism? I meant to have said lumbago." "Oh," said the man, "but, anyhow, your pills are only bread." "Of course, of course," replied the quack; "don't you know that bread is the oldest and finest thing to remove pencil marks with? You didn't want me to give you india rubber pills, did you?"

AND DENNY ATE THE EGGS

Though He Did Not Greatly Appreciate Them He Had a Wife Who Knew the Proper Thing.

An Oak Park family lost a jewel when their Irish maid, Ellen, was married a few weeks ago to Denny, a stalwart teamster. The head of the family where Ellen worked, being somewhat run down, had been taking each morning for breakfast, on the doctor's orders, two raw eggs in milk.
For many months Ellen had placed these eggs before him at the table.
Recently she paid a visit to her former mistress and told of the difficulties she had had in "cleansing" Denny.

"Oh, insisted," she said, "on Den-ny's havin' his raw eggs at breakfast
like your husband."

"But, Ellen," exclaimed the mistress, "a great big, husky fellow like Denny ought not to need raw eggs."
"Sure, an' he told me that himself,
but I made him eat them," Ellen responded, "why do ye be giving me these eggs? Don't I be eatin' a dish of oatmeal and a beefsteak, besides four fried eggs for breakfast? Why should I be stuffin' myself with these raw ones?"

"Sure, an' it's an ignorant man ye are," I told him. 'All the gentlemen be eatin' them these days.'"
—Chicago Inter Ocean.

KEEPING THE HOME CHEERFUL

"Who won the game?" asked the woman?

"We did. Are you a baseball enthusiast?"

"Not exactly. But I make it a rule to find out about the game so as to know whether to mention it to my husband when he gets home."

THE DAY FOR BILLS.

"Pa, did Adam have to go to work
after he left the Garden of Eden?"
"Yes, son, and it wasn't long before the first of the month came to have a special sign of grace."—Balti-

Emotions Expressed in Dancing.

In the Vedas of the Hindus, some of which date back 6,000 years before Christ, there is steady reference to dancing as an expression of triumph,
worship, and even the deepest grief.
It is the same in the Zendavestas of the Persians. Dancing with cymbals

PREPARED FOR "RAINY DAY"

Amee of Bokhara Said to Be Storing Up Treasure at the Rate of $8,000,000 a Year.

The largest private hoard in the world is probably that owned by the Amee of Bokhara, the Russian vassal
state in Central Asia, writes the St.
Petersburg correspondent of the New York Sun. According to the Turko-stanskiye Krai the Amee possesses in his stronghold a vault 115 feet long, 45 feet wide and 20 feet high, completely filled with gold bars and coined gold.

Some years ago the Amee had another vault built to hold his savings, and the new storehouse is now almost full. There is at the Bokhara court an enormous cash book which has served for generations and in which all revenues and expenditures are supposed to be put down. But for generations it has never been checked with the "bank in hand."

Grafting is the easiest thing in the world at Bokhara. The Amee's officials draw no salary. They are appointed on the understanding that they must keep themselves on what they can make out of their various offices. There is no budget, and the largest permanent charge on the Amee's income is one of $15,000 annually for a local hospital. There there is a small contribution toward the upkeep of the Russian police in the protectorate and the maintenance of the Bokhara "army" which has shrunk
to a mere bodyguard.

The Amee's annual savings, it is calculated, amount to more than $3-000,000 a year. He is by traditional usage compelled to send every year a number of valuable "presents" to the Russian authorities at Samarkand and Tashkent. These presents consist of carpets, silks and the like,
which are immediately sold by the recipients to native traders, from whom the Amee as regularly buys them back at fixed prices, to be stored up and to serve again as "presents" the following year.

BEAUTY IN THE FAR NORTH

Magnificent Displays of Color Where the Arctic Sun Shines for a Brief Period.

Nature has provided wonderful displays of color as an offset to the extreme desolation of the far north. A traveler in Alaska describes in vivid style one of the short-day appearances of the Arctic sun as follows:

"First a greenish glow on the southern horizon, brightening into lemon and then into clear primrose, invades
the deep purple of the starry heavens.
Then a beautiful circle of bluish pink above a circle of pure amethyst gradually stretches all around the edge of the sky, slowly brightening while the stars fade out and the heavens change to blue.

"The dead white mirror of the snow takes every tint that the sky displays with a faint but exquisite radiance.
Then the sun's disk appears with a flood of yellow light, but with no appreciable warmth, and for a little space his level rays shoot out and gild
the tree tops and the distant hills.

"The snow springs to life. Dead white no longer, its dry, crystalline particles glitter in myriads of diamond facets with every color of the spectrum. Then the sun is gone, and the lovely circle of rose pink over amethyst again stretches round the horizon, slowly fading until once more the pale primrose glows in the south against the purple sky with its silver stars."

He Knew That Money Talks.

He couldn't talk English, though perhaps he understood a little, but he knew a thing or two. He was riding on a huckster's wagon past a public school. His partner had gone into a house to sell some truck, and he was learning the business. His clothes were ragged and shabby, much like those of the stage tramp. The children started to jeer at him making remarks about his clothes. He seemed to understand that they were making fun of his clothes, so he reached in his pocket and pulled out the broadbill "roll of bills that would choke a crow."
These bills he waved at the children,
for apparently he believed that money would insure respect, even if he did have old clothes.

Memory Failure.

A Russian doctor gives interesting accounts of memory failure of some of his patients. A literary man had been troubled with absolute failure of memory. He could remember exactly anything he had done more than a year ago, but occurrences of later date he had entirely forgotten. When attacked by the disease he was engaged in writing a novel, which he had half-finished. He remembered the first half, but could not tell how he had intended to finish it. He was at last unable to remember whether he had dined.

Standing In With the Doctor.

The wife of a surgeon in Baltimore was one afternoon giving a bridge party, when, just before the guests began to arrive, she found that she had not a sufficient number of chairs. Her desperation she bethought herself of a nearby undertaker who might be willing to let her have a few of the needed pieces. She telephoned and Public Schools of the City Opened Fall Session Yesterday.

ENROLLMENT WAS 1125

For the First Day and Will be Considerably Increased.

The public schools of the city opened yesterday with attendance showing a substantial increase. Supt. J. W. Marion and the faculty of more than 30 teachers, were in their places and there were busy times around the four big school houses.

It is presumed that the usual plan of one session a day will be followed this year, which will let the children out at 1:30 o'clock.

The first enrollment, which will be considerably increased in a few days, was as follows:

High School.....	225
Clay St. School, boys.....	148
" " " girls.....	154
Virginia St. School, boys.....	181
" " " girls.....	185
West Side School, boys.....	108
" " " girls.....	124
Total.....	1125

BETHEL COLLEGE'S OPENING

Everything In Readiness For Fall Session Wednesday Morning.

Bethel Female College will open its fall session to-morrow with prospects indicating a full school. Prof. W. S. Peterson, the new principal, is well satisfied with the outlook. The housekeeper, Mrs. L. E. Somerville, of West Virginia, has been here some time and the college is in apple pie order for the girls, who will begin coming in to-night.

The following members of the faculty will arrive to-day:

Prof. Geo. Swann, of Richmond, Va., Languages; Miss Zola Johnson, Waycross, Ga., Science; Miss Louise Moore, Hawkinsville, Ga., Art and Expression; Miss Zola Parler, Orangeburg, S. C., voice and piano; Miss Gertrude Jones, Waycross, Ga., primary department; Miss Virginia Grayson, Rutherfordton, N. C., piano and violin.

Mrs. B. F. Eager returned last night from Mt. Vernon, Wash.

Mickey McGuire.

Mickey McGuire, who formerly stayed in this city for some time, is back visiting some of his friends. McGuire is now making aeroplane flights in some of the small cities. He has just finished an engagement at Shawneetown, Ill., and will open a series of flights in several days in another town in Illinois.

BELGIAN MINISTER IN PROTEST AT "OUTRAGE"

Submits Formal Notice To Sec. Of State Bryan.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Formal protest against the burning of Louvain by German troops as a violation of international law and the laws of humanity, was submitted to the state department late today by Belgian Minister Havenith.

The minister was deeply moved when he left Secretary Bryan's office, where for the last weeks his visits have meant the record on pathetic history for his country.

"I bring this knowledge to the United States," said the minister sadly, "for it is not only Belgium who has to mourn. This thing concerns the whole world."

The loss of the old church of St. Pierre was mentioned and the destruction of the 'jewel of Gothic art,' the Hotel de Ville. In conclusion the message ran as follows:

"Americans, many of whom have followed courses at this illustrious alma mater and have there received such cordial hospitality cannot remain insensible to this outrage on the rights of humanity and civilization, which is unprecedented in history."

Louvain, which lies in the famous province of Brabant of which it was the capital in the fourteenth century, was the seat of the Duke of Brabant in the eleventh century. The university, which was the finest in Belgium, was founded by Duke John IV of Brabant in 1423. The church of St. Pierre, supposed to have been destroyed by fire, is called by experts "the richest and most ornate example of pointed Gothic architecture in the country."

The latest advices do not state the exact amount of damage and the German and Belgian versions differ.
